What's Behind News of Today

Identical candidate runs far ahead of his gang, and is counted on to carry them into office on his coat-tails. The post-election discovery has all the earmarks of an autopsy—for the Kansas crowd.

NEW YORK

Convicted
Danger of a second organized labor split inside the Committee for Industrial Organization is imminent, a few weeks ago—has passed. John Lewis and David Dubinsky of the International Ladies' Garment Workers have made peace.

The latter union recently issued an official statement reading in part as follows: "There is more than a desire for peace involved in this dispute. There are involved fundamental concepts of trade union organization, methods and tactics. . . . A peace which would leave such fundamental issues out of consideration cannot be lasting."

War
CIO officials privately were plenty worried about the possibility of Dubinsky's defection. The house subdivided against itself would surely have fallen.

Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers—perhaps the staunchest and ablest leader—Lewis has in the CIO and a close personal friend of Dubinsky—is said to have played an important part in persuading the latter to stay with the ship.

Victory
The Supreme Court's eagerly awaited decision in the Duke Power case turned out to be a Mexican standoff. By ordering a retrial from the beginning, the high tribunal left the question of whether PWA has a constitutional right to advance money to municipalities—to build distribution plants competing with existing power facilities—higher in the air than ever.

Nevertheless, both contestants can derive a measure of comfort from the ruling. The private utilities are still at liberty to seek injunctions against competitive construction, meanwhile hoping that public sentiment against "unnecessary" government spending will continue to grow.

Publicity
The Stock Exchange can be expected to announce in the near future that it will cooperate to the limit with the Securities Exchange Commission to curb "excessive" speculation. What constitutes excess can be left conveniently vague—likewise the precise method of cooperation.

The declaration will be important chiefly as the first step in a public relations campaign to sell the idea that the Exchange will not be to blame for any future boom-and-bust in the stock market. Exchange authorities privately fear that Chairman Jim Landis of the SEC has dumped the baby in their laps, and they want to get rid of it as quickly as possible.

Clover
European demand inspired by the menace of imminent war is a big factor in the commodity future markets—especially wheat. It is true that Germany will have to buy to make up for a shortage in domestic foodstuffs, but that's only part of the story.

Current activity in wheat is so much slower to big time speculators. Many erstwhile stock market operators have taken to the commodity markets, where they can play around to their hearts' content with never a thought of the SEC to hamper their fond.

Judge to Decide Where Children Spend Holiday

WHITE PLAINS, Dec. 18.—Sixteen-year-old Lillian Faruolo and her brother, John, twelve, are coming "home" from private schools for the Christmas holidays tomorrow, but they don't know yet whether "home" will be with their mother, in her apartment at 200 Parkway Road, Bronxville, or with their father, who is staying at the New York Athletic Club in New York City.

The father, Edward M. Faruolo, well-to-do Manhattan realtor, is demanding a divorce from their mother, who, in turn, seeks a similar decree from Faruolo and applied in Supreme Court today for $200 temporary weekly alimony pending trial in January.

Meanwhile, it is up to Justice Raymond E. Aldrich to determine which parent shall have custody of the children over the Yuletide. Lillian is already packing her bags at Drew Seminary in Carmel, while her brother is getting his luggage ready at Hackley School in Tarrytown.

PHILADELPHIA (UP).—The five new stars in the heavens merely are the result of a coincidence, according to James Stokely, astronomical director of Franklin Institute.

The stars, known technically as novae, flashed out centuries apart, he says, in widely separated parts of the universe. The light of each, travelling eleven million miles a minute for hundreds of years, happened to reach the world at approximately the same time.

EDITORIAL
With Christmas holidays come the usual amount of good will and cheer throughout the country. Christmas is a time set aside to rejoice and be happy. But while we are preparing for this occasion it might be well to consider the shut-ins who can't be happy and gay with us, people so suffering from various ailments among which one of the most prevalent is tuberculosis.

Assembly Held By High School Gym Classes

Anne Ruscigno Acts as Master of Ceremonies For Party

Wednesday morning, Dec. 16, the Junior and Senior High School assemblies were conducted by the Physical Education Department under the direction of Mrs. Bjornstad.

Anne Ruscigno acted as master of ceremonies and Anne Walsh read a composition, "Keeping Fit," by Nancy Nicolas. "Keeping Fit" was judged the best, from a selection of over 200 compositions.

The program continued with a posture parade showing the attitudes, kinds of bad posture. The girls in the posture parade included, Mildred Kadlec, Helen Benedict, Betty Davidson, Alice Foley, Evelyn Klubb, Elsie Jelenek, Anne Mulane, Florence Valcarr, Josephine Variano, Alice Duquette, and Angelina DiVico.

Then Lucy Ceccolini, Mary Mitchell, Helen Nelson, Grace Camera, Mary Quattrocchi, Anna Jelenek, Rosemary Coffey, May DeMichele, Helen Davis, Betsy Conover, and Mary Maurer gave an exhibition with dumb-bells.

The different dances taught in the gym classes were then presented. The first dance being a School-Day Tap in which Mary Brooks, Mabel Cox, Mary Thorne, Agnes Gallagher, Martha Trist, and Mary Tonelli took part. The second dance was a Ball Dance by Ruth Swanson, Dot Newman, and Betty Jensen. The piano accompaniment was by Mrs. Runyon and Carol Shaw.

Senior Artists Discuss Trends

Rosemary Lennox Talks on Impressionists

Wednesday, Dec. 16, the Senior Art Club held its regular meeting, in the form of a Christmas Party. The meeting was conducted by Betty Davidson, president. For the roll call, each member, instead of answering, "present," gave an artist's name and assumed that name throughout the meeting.

Following the talk on "Impressionists," Marion Stewart gave a "Talk on a Madonna." After the talks, the meeting was turned over to Marion Stewart, chairman of the entertainment committee, who had numerous games planned for the members.

The officers of the club are president, Sylvia Page; vice-president, Marianne Nicolas; secretary, Genevieve Patten; treasurer, Carol Shaw; chairman of program committee, Mabel Cox; publicity manager, Lucille Johnson.

The committees in charge of planning the Yuletide affair on Monday are decorations, Gloria D'Enteama; chairman, assisted by Mary Ballas, Helen Thomas, Marianne Nicolas, and Margaret Pirie; program, Gerry Speno, chairman, assisted by Betty Barr and Lulu Clark.

On Monday evening, Dec. 21, in the high school library, the Girls Choral Club under the supervision of Miss Helen Ferris will hold its annual Christmas party.

The library will be beautifully decorated and will contain the traditional Christmas tree. Games will be played, and there will follow carol singing by the members. A highlight of the party will be the distribution of gifts to each of the girls present.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Junior American Citizens held their bi-weekly meeting with Lucille Johnson presiding. Following the salute to the flag, Richard Neundorffer read a paper on the early life in the English Manors. Lucille Johnson spoke on the responsibilities of American citizens.

N. T. Elementary School Pupils To Present Annual Yule Program

On Tuesday, December 22, 1936, at 8 P. M. in the auditorium of the High School building, Mrs. Catherine Turek will put on her annual Elementary School Christmas program for the parents and teachers of North Tarrytown.

A Message from Santa Claus. Thomas Cavalieri. Allegiance, Zamenick. Junior Orchestra Operetta, "The Toy Shop."

Tina, a little wail, works as slave for Mrs. Grumpy in the Toy-Shop. She has never known father or mother, and only remembers the Gypsy woman who beat her and from whom she ran away; and the scolding Mrs. Grumpy. She is not permitted to handle the toys, and her only playmate is the Oldest Doll who has been in the shop ever since its real owner left it in charge of the Grumpys.

While she is out of the Shop the owner, an old Toy-maker, comes in. Just returned from a ten years' search for his lost daughter, he asks the Grumpys to allow him to spend Christmas Eve in the shop as he used to do.

Cast of Characters: Tina, Nancy Davenport; Mrs. Grumpy, Agnes Walker; Toy-maker, Joseph Galgano; School children, Harry Osgood; Isabel, Martin, Charles Pailaga; Mary Diana, Joseph De Michele; Effie Kirmayer, Michael Di Matlio; Marie, Ursula, Robert Jacquet; Jane Schneider, Joseph Liptak; Catherine McGowan, Mandolin Duet Stephanie Matzer, Rudolph Matzer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (AP).—The riddled corpse of twenty-four-year-old Dominic Scaduto rested today at the County morgue—end of the trail in his vain flight from a gangland nemesis which brought down his brother Joseph in New York last July. Three gunmen lined up the patrons of a West Side pool hall in a back room last night, drew a bead on Scaduto and shot him to death with a shotgun and two pistols. They made no attempt to rob or harm the customers.

Yule Assembly Is Planned for High Schools

Miss Helen Ferris Will Direct Program of Carol Singing

Once again the most beautiful season of the year, the Yuletide, with its holly, carolers and its spirit of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill to Men" is upon us.

On Wednesday noon the students of the North Tarrytown Public Schools will put away books of history, geometry, and the like and prepare for an exciting and promising Christmas vacation.

For weeks the Christmas spirit has been being instilled in the hearts of N. T. boys and girls and daughters, but this spirit will reach its height when the Junior and Senior High Schools witness the annual Christmas Assembly which is to be conducted by Miss Helen Ferris.

The Girls Chorus will open the program with two of the most beloved carols, the well-known "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful" and the ever beautiful "Oh, Holy Night." The Boys' Glee Club will contribute a group of carols consisting of "The Three Kings of Orient are," "Oh Fantasy Pine," and "The First Noel."

A new selection called "Yuletide Echoes" will be rendered by the High School Orchestra. Once more the Girls' Chorus will return to sing "Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly" and "The Shepherds." To conclude the program the entire assembly will unite in singing many of the favorite carols.

The Girls' Chorus consists of Catherine Andrus, Shirley Baker, Mary Ballas, Betty Barr, Lulu Cox, Mabel Cox, Anna Cronin, Bertha Czech, Elizabeth Davenport, Gloria D'Eupehemia, Ruth DeRevere, Helen Fuczek, Anna Galba, Helen Jandrucko, Kathleen Joyce, Dorothy Kelly, Sophie Katzen, Gertrude Kenyon, Margaret Konstrubal, Josephine Krupp, Helen Macko, Anna Marie McClintock, Grace Muller, Marianne Nicolas, Carolyn Page, Sarah Pige, Genevieve Patten, Margaret Pirie, Lavenia Quinn, Charlotte Seifert, Carol Shaw, Geraldine Speno, Helen Thomas.

The Boys' Glee Club is made up of Stephen Benedict, Joseph McJaden, Joseph Campbell, Grace Marler, Frank Chiebetar, Thomas Noian, Walter Toval, Robert Ross, Chris Lennox, Donald Van Tassel, William Weeks.

Grade Classes Revive Paper

Daniel Grubstein Heads Publication Staff

The sixth grade English classes, advised by Mrs. Tracy, have again put forth effort to produce a paper of their own. The pupils have named it "The North Tarrytown Star."

The staff for this newspaper includes: Editor-in-chief, Daniel Grubstein; assistant editors: news: Stern, Fisher, Grace Rowland, James DeMuna; stories, Mary Jane Rabin; reports: James Reed, Rosalie Greenfeld, Elise Berg, Virginia Schmidt, Vera Parker, Grace Rowland.

Typing and preparing stencil: A Friend, assembling papers: Sixth Grade; mimeographing: High School Commercial Class, assisted by members of "Star" staff of 1935-1936.

This unique project contains stories, poems, true experiences, etc., written by the students themselves. All money matters are taken care of by the staff, and the papers are now being sold for five cents each.

Dramatic Production Proves Successful
On Saturday evening the curtain fell for the last time on another dramatic success presented by the students of the North Tarrytown High School.
