

Comanche Minister Is Guest Speaker At Reformed Church

The Rev. James Otipoby, a Comanche Indian, educated by Reformed Church Missions, who returned to teach and preach among his people, spoke yesterday before a joint meeting of First and Second Reformed Church women.

The First Church group was hostess at the session for which Mr. Otipoby sketched Comanche dealings with the U. S. government in the last century. He told of the wholesale transportation of the Comanches to Oklahoma from Texas, their subsequent return for revenge of their human offerings of captured women and children to the sun god, which terrified the white man. He was one of the first Indian children baptized at the mission in Laughton, Okla. Mr. Otipoby returned to teach at Laughton and was later transferred to New Mexico, his present post.

Tea was served at the close of the program, with Mrs. Herbert Ayers, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Ray Kelderhouse, Mrs. John Nyberg, Mrs. Stephen Green.

Mrs. Clifford Fisher led the devotions and Mrs. Morton Charnley was the soloist.

Mrs. Hallock Traces Christian Democracy

Mrs. Arthur Hallock traced the spread of Christian influence toward democracy in an analysis before the Women's Society of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday afternoon.

"In these trying days of war, much is being done in preparing for the safety of our democracy. We are preparing for the safety of the lives of our civilians on our State roads. But what about our roads to Christian democracy? Is the America inherited by you and me a more Christian America than the one we are to bequeath to the next generation?" asked Mrs. Hallock in opening her address.

"We have new within our borders a vast multitude of people of foreign birth or the children of parents of foreign birth to constitute a challenge to the best in American life, and in particular to the Christian Church. Do we actually have the faith to choose paths that lead to Christian Democracy?"

Mrs. Hallock's talk dealt with progress in various fields of Baptist endeavor leading to this goal. She mentioned the bilingual churches, the church schools, the Baptist Summer health camps, the Marler School in South Carolina, the Kodiak Baptist Missions in Alaska, the work in Army camps and in Bacon Indian College.

Announcement was made during the meeting of a Tuesday afternoon sewing meeting at Mrs. Horace Hunt's home for BWRS and Red Cross projects. Mrs. Peter Sackela led the devotions.

Dr. Wood Discusses 'Falling in Love'

Dr. L. Foster Wood of the Federation of Churches told a young people's group at the YMCA last night how to "Fall in Love Intelligently."

Dr. Wood tackled the subject from four points of view: cardiac respiratory, mental, social and spiritual. He found that an initial survey of the field on these principles would save many later disillusionments. Among other suggestions he pointed out that "dating" a person you do not like might be good mental discipline in being a challenge to put yourself across and to find good characteristics in the person in question.

Your government wants you to hoard coal. One thing you can hoard—and still remain patriotic—is coal. As a matter of fact, your government will give its whole-hearted approval to your decision to store as much coal as possible. The freight cars that usually transport coal will, this year, be filled to the brim with munitions, arms, etc. If your coal bin looks a little sick, have it filled right away. Look around your basement—find some place there to store next year's supply. You may be able to use some of the extra space in your garage. Regardless of where you have to keep it, order your coal now—while it's still available and while prices are fair. It will help your family to good health next winter. Look through the coal yard ads in this paper now—then phone the one nearest you. The Daily News
