

TRAIN KILLS RAIL WORKER

Brakeman Crushed Beneath Car at Yonkers

YONKERS—A New York Central Railroad brakeman was killed Saturday night when he fell beneath a train, backing up after five cars had been cut off at the company's freight yards, foot of Babcock Place.

The victim was John Kane, sixty-two, of 52 John Street, Rensselaer, N. Y.

Railroad officials told Patrolman Francis Grady that Kane, in accordance with his duties, had thrown a switch to enable the five cars, being cut off the northbound train, to proceed into the freight yards.

Kane, standing on the rear platform of the train, signalled to the engineer with a red lantern and, as the train got in motion, fell from the platform to the tracks and was crushed by the moving train.

Clyde Davenport, trainmaster, told police that car 738 was derailed, apparently by "improper handling of the switch, the safety pin being out of place."

Kane evidently was thrown under the train by the derailment railroad men said.

Medical Examiner Squire will hold an investigation.

The lease provides for payment of $720 the first year, $840 the second, and $900 the third, with an option for renewal for seven years at an annual rental of $1,000.

Approximately $700 will be expended to put the premises in condition.

FORDS OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING

DEARBORN, Mich. (UP).—The Henry Fords celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today, commemorating the day when he, a gawky youth of twenty-three, and she, Clara Bryant, a plump girl of nineteen who lived on an adjoining farm, took the vows in the presence of their families assembled in the parlor.

Ford planned today to be in his office as usual, but an informal party will be held tonight at the home of Edsel Ford, their only son. A few close friends and members of the families were invited.

It was also Mrs. Ford's sixty-ninth birthday.

On their honeymoon, the Fords went from the Wayne County farm to nearby Detroit, put up in a lodging house and Ford went to work for the Detroit Electric Company at nights. With them, they took Ford's embryonic plans for a gasoline buggy to sell for so little that the average family could afford one.

Tomorrow Dearborn will celebrate the Fords anniversary with a party attended by 100 of their schoolmates. The Dearborn Pioneer Club is sponsoring it. A petition to President Roosevelt, bearing 500,000 names and two miles long, requesting that the Government "cease attacks" on Ford and other business men, will be dedicated at tomorrow's ceremonies. The celebration will be restricted to residents of Dearborn.

COLLEGE TEACHING METHODS ASSAILED

NEW YORK (UP).—The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching reported today after a 10-year survey that many college seniors, preparing to become teachers, know less than the high school seniors whom they will teach.

The reason ascribed for this was the system of dividing the curriculum into periods. This causes students to struggle for passing marks, "exposing themselves to education temporarily and putting it out of mind when they have passed the course. Thus the teachers forget much of what they learn."

MAYOR IS HIT BY BLEAKLEY

LaGuardia Stand on Communism Assailed

NEW YORK.—The second round of a brick-bat tournament on Communism went by default yesterday to former Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley when Mayor LaGuardia failed to appear at the bell.

The second round, like the first on Sunday, April 3, was before a Holy Name Society breakfast in the Hotel Astor. The first was before 5,800 members of the New York Police Department; yesterday's, with 1,000 present, was before the U. S. Customs employees.

Again refraining from mentioning by name Simon W. Green, avowed Communist named to the staff of Manhattan Borough President Isaac, Mr. Bleakley answered LaGuardia's defense of the political rights of Communism, made at the Police Department breakfast after Bleakley had left.

Replies to Mayor

"Only last week a gentleman here said that there was nothing worse than the intolerance of the tolerant," Mr. Bleakley reminded his audience yesterday.

"He also said he believed in the representation of minorities. That's the American spirit of fair play, and I believe in it too."

"But I want to know the type of minority to be represented before giving them representation."

"I am not in favor of any minority group being represented when that group represents a movement that is opposed to the principles of American Government. When we can't find men who are real Americans, then we can look to it—but not before."

Fails to Return

On the preceding Sunday, Mayor LaGuardia, hearing Mr. Bleakley's attack on Gerson and Communism over the radio in his home, hurried to the Astor to reply in defense. Yesterday, however, he did not return to the fray, and Mr. Bleakley, who was received by the Customs staff with hearty applause, was accorded the round on technical grounds.

Political observers, recalling the prominence extended Mr. Bleakley last week when he was chosen first vice-president of the State Constitutional Convention, saw in the further publicity accorded his recent attacks on Communism in New York City indications of additional build-up as the Republican Party's most likely candidate this fall for Governor.

Mr. Bleakley himself has so far declined to allow his name to be presented by party leaders and has let his friends know that, personally, he would prefer to remain in Westchester and perhaps run this fall for County President.

The fine was imposed by Acting City Judge Thomas A. McKennell. Detective Joseph Quinn charged Hughes with disorderly conduct after he caused a disturbance in the office of Complaint Clerk William Forrester.

Your NEW YORK Income Tax

Emergency Tax Must Be Included
No. 9

By MARK GRAVES

When you pay your normal New York State personal income tax on or before April 15, do not neglect to pay also the one percent emergency tax.

This levy operates under essentially the same regulations as the normal tax, with one major exception—under the normal income tax, all profits derived from the sale or exchange of stocks, bonds, land, buildings and other real or personal property, are taxable and losses from similar transactions are deductible.

Under the emergency tax, profits derived from such transactions are not taxable and losses are not deductible unless connected with property dealt in as a business. Return forms provide space for the computation of net income for both normal and emergency taxes.

Personal exemptions applicable to the normal tax are allowed under the emergency tax. All deductions, except those sustained through the sale of personal property not connected with trade or business are also acceptable.

Jury on a charge of first degree assault.

Troopers said an old grudge existed between Lucido and Cardillo, a former resident of Mount Kisco.
